KENNEDY'S
CONTAINS MONEY AND TAR

Cuts Down the Appropriations.
Governor Dawson has signed the general appropriation bill which for the two fiscal years of 1907 and 1908 carried approximately $3,000,000. He did not approve the measure, however, until he had vetoed a number of items amounting to near $200,000.

Items providing for new buildings at normal schools, for gymnasiums, new training features and improvements about the buildings and grounds were vetoed and the institutions must get along as they have been doing in the past.

The appropriation for the university for the first year was not molested, but that for the second year was blue penciled in several places. The amounts for the medical, art and musical departments for the second year were knocked out, but the departments will not be handicapped as it is the intention of the board of regents to charge tuition fees to the students.

In the matter of the insurance on public buildings it is explained that there is plenty of money on hand to pay the premiums for the first year, and it is stated that there are no supreme court reports to be printed.

The appropriation for the San Jose scale is knocked out for one year and Storer college gets it in the neck as does the Tyler county high school, the James Rumsey Memorial, the King's Daughters' Hospital, the Hill Top colored school and others.

HOW TO REMAIN YOUNG.
To continue young in health and strength, do as Mrs. N. F. Rowan, McDonough, Ga. did. She says: "Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured me in chronic liver and stomach trouble complicated with such an unhealthy condition of the blood that my skin turned as red as flannel. I am now practically 20 years younger than before I took Electric Bitters. I can now do all my work with ease and without my husband's store." Guaranteed at All Druggists. Price 50c.

STOP WOMAN AND CONSIDER

First, that almost every operation in our hospitals, performed upon women, becomes necessary because of neglect of such symptoms as Backache, Irrregularities, Displacements, Pains in the Side, Dragging Sensations, Dizziness and Sleeplessness.

Second, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, has cured more cases of female ills than any other one medicine known. It regulates, strengthens and restores women's health and is invaluable in preparing women for child-birth and during the period of Change of Life.

Third, the great volume of unsolicited and grateful testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time being published by special permission, give absolute evidence of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

For more than 30 years has been curing Female Complaints, such as Dragging Sensations, Weak Back, Falling and Displacements, Inflammation and Ulceration, and Organic Diseases, and it dissolves and expels Tumors at an early stage.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. for advice. She is the Mrs. Pinkham who has been advising sick women free of charge for more than twenty years, and before that she assisted her mother-in-law, Lydia E. Pinkham in advising. Thus she is especially well qualified to guide sick women back to health. Write today, don't wait until too late.

Dolls of All Ages

Brussels Cable to the Chicago Inter Ocean.

Princess Clementine of Belgium, King Leopold's youngest and only maiden daughter, owns a remarkable collection of dolls, which was lately put on exhibition here for the benefit of the Calvary guild for poor tuberculosis patients in Brussels. It is said to be the most extensive collection of this kind in the world, containing every imaginable kind of doll, ancient and modern.

The oldest dolls in the collection were found in the ruins of Babylon and presented to Queen Louise of Belgium, Princess Clementine's grandmother. These dolls are small terra cotta figures and ivories, beautifully carved, which must have been most fascinating for the children of Babylon.

Next in point of antiquity are Roman dolls, of which Princess Clementine owns three varieties—dolls of ivory wax and clay. The Roman clay dolls with jointed arms and legs, are among the oldest and most valuable in the collection. There are several Greek dolls. Though less ancient than the Roman dolls, they are more valuable as the number in existence is very limited, and the Princess Clementine has some of the finest specimens. The Greek dolls represent gods, heroes, and common mortals. There is one kind with flexible limbs whose clothes were made to take off and put on and every doll had a bed of its own.

There is likewise a doll house, with lead dishes and tiny kitchen utensils, which would seem to show that the Greek maidens were, in this respect, as advanced as are their sisters to-day.

There are some queer dolls from Greenland which were cut out of bones and mammoth teeth and dressed in soft tanned skins. They were presented to Princess Clementine by the Duke of Orleans, who brought them back from his latest arctic expedition. Another specimen is the Fosti doll from Assam, British India. It is made of stiff paper and cardboard, painted red to represent an old man holding a fan, and is supposed to portray one addicted to opium eating.

Still another novel specimen is one of the first dolls taken into France during the reign of Charles VI by an Italian from Padua named Pusmo. The dolls Pusmo took to the French court were images of famous empresses and other celebrated women of the old Roman empire, carved after statues and coins. King Charles sent for Pusmo to amuse him and was so greatly taken with the statuette of Poppea, whom Nero is said to have killed with a kick that he bought it. As the King called this doll Poppea, the courtiers did the same, and thus was derived the French word for doll, "poupee." It is the original Poppea which figures in Princess Clementine's collection.

The Greenbrier county grand jury, of Judge W. R. Bennett's court has found an indictment against Hon. A. S. Johnson, editor of the Monroe Watchman, growing out of an editorial in the Watchman, some time ago, criticizing the finding of the court in a criminal case tried in Lewisburg some months ago. We did not see that article in question and know nothing about the merits of the matter, but we know Syd Johnson and while he is a plain, outspoken man, he is a gentleman of the real type and we are loathe to believe that he is guilty of libeling anybody. Again, we do not believe a court can gain any public confidence by indicting newspaper men who criticize its decision it renders.

The street committee has had the street roller at work on the fill over the dry bridge on South Queen street and have much improved the condition of the street.

Where Lies The Blame

Mr. Bryan and his government ownership scheme get another important boost through the lack of duty of the administration officials of the great state of Illinois. Their negligence to enforce the law and guard her interests is the subject of general comment. What are the facts? Harriman's financial jugglery of the stock of the Chicago & Alton, an Illinois corporation, was a gross violation of the constitution of that state. Did the governor or attorney general of Illinois make the slightest attempt to stop or prevent Harriman's swindling operations? Not a bit of it. So far as their guardianship of the people's interests were concerned these officials might have been doing business in Congo Land. Harriman and his lieutenants were as free to defy the law and swindle the public as were the governor and his attorney general to look at the clock, dine at the proper hour and pick their teeth complacently under the belief that all was well.

It is this incompetence of state officials and neglect of state legislatures to do their duty that is burning the minds of people from their allegiance to their state. Seeing no redress at home for their grievances and wrongs they seek for help from the federal government. If state governments are "weighed in the balance and found wanting," it is not natural that relief be sought elsewhere? The interests of the citizens of the state are subordinated to political ambitions; powerful corporations wield sufficient influence to both prevent and direct legislation and control completely the state's executive officers. West Virginia's legislature just adjourned is an exemplification of being under the complete influence of the railroads, Standard Oil and other powerful interests. How are people going to preserve their respect and fealty to state government when it proves itself inadequate to do its duty?

The Register regrets to note that this weaning process is so rife, because it bodes no good for the integrity and preservation of the states as such. And what is as patent as that water runs down hill, the situation must become worse unless it is within the power of the citizen himself to eschew partisanship and elect men to offices of trust and importance on their merits. All the law and the prophets hang on that one axiom.—Wheeling Register.

Should Read the Local Paper.

The local paper should be found in every home. No child should grow up ignorant who can be taught to appreciate the home paper. It is said to be the stepping stone of intelligence. Give your children a foreign paper which contains not a word about any person, place or thing which they have ever seen or heard of, and how could you ever expect them to become interested? But let them have a home paper, read of people whom they meet and know of places with which they are familiar and soon an interest is awakened which increases with every arrival of the local papers all their lives, and they become intelligent men and women, credit to their ancestors and strong in the knowledge of the world.—Western Publisher.
